1. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The cited references teach other valved containers with rotating caps each of which lack the combination of a first locking means and a second means for locking that selectively engages the first locking means. King, Jr. teaches a valved container that punctures a hose.

2. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

The application has been amended as follows:

This application is in condition for allowance except for the presence of claims 17 and 18 drawn to an invention non-elected without traverse. Accordingly, claims 17 and 18 have been cancelled.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: In regard to claims 1 and 13, the prior art of record does not teach an apparatus for dispensing fluids that includes a container with a means for valving, a first means for engaging and a separate first means for locking and a cap having a second means for engaging that engages the first means for engaging and a second locking means that selectively engages the first locking means to allow the cap to move axially along the container wherein the cap also includes means for actuating the valving means when the cap is moved axially toward the container. In regard to claim 14, the prior art of record does not teach a dispensing apparatus with the specific structure of a container, a conical nozzle with a plurality of apertures and a spiral thread on the outer surface of the nozzle which additionally includes a means for valving the container located between the nozzle and the container.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
